State of Farm to School	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> The State of Farm to School report was completed in 2013 and 2014 with 100% of the 42 school districts in San Diego County reporting (25 responded in 2013). Based on surveys school districts are spending $8.8 million on local produce. San Diego County schools are serving 53 million meals per year and spending $65 million annually on purchasing food; per-meal cost ranges from $.28-$1.89 for breakfast and $.28-$3.19 for lunch. Key findings: schools use three main distributors (Diamond Jack, Sunrise, and American), 21 school districts are using the Farm to School Taskforce’s definition of local (in contracts and conversations), most requested items from schools include apples, lettuce, oranges, tomatoes, bananas, which total $3 million a year. Concerns with sourcing locally include: small volume, product availability, food safety and liability. Schools need competitive pricing; single ordering method, and availability of products. Recommendations include developing standard language and sharing knowledge, including local procurement language in contracts, transparency with food safety and liability, shared purchasing 	<ul style="list-style-type: none">

	schedule (like Harvest of the Month) and single ordering method. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Future plans include continuing Harvest of the Month promotion; better coordinating efforts among distributors; presenting best practices related to social media and parent/ teacher engagement; incorporating “local” in solicitation language; and participating in California Thursdays.
Farm Fresh to You	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Farm Fresh to You offers several farm raising options and the third option (10% of produce box purchases are given back to the schools) is the most popular. • To sign-up, email startwellness@farmfreshtoyou.com and schools receive a promo code and promotion recourses. Schools also receive complementary farm tour tickets. • The CSA boxes can be ordered online and are customizable. • Boxes can be delivered to residences & worksites (check website to confirm delivery availability) • The smallest box is $26 and the boxes can be delivered as often as you would like. • Currently they do not accept SNAP. • Option for less affluent schools could include offering it to school faculty and staff. Kay mentioned that affluent and low-income schools have partnered with fundraisers in the past. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Nina share flyers via email. • District reps forward flyers to schools. • JuliAnna forward Nicole information on the CA Nutrition Incentives Act
