	in the Action Plan. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• COI consists of seven domains (Schools and After-School, Community, Government, Business, Early Childhood, Media, and Healthcare) and is governed by a Leadership Council representing the domains and including other key stakeholders.</li> <li>• COI follows a collective impact model, which includes creating a common agenda, shared measures, mutually reinforcing activities, continuous communication, and backbone support.</li> <li>• Key projects by domain: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>○ Healthcare- disseminate consistent obesity prevention messaging and increase the capacity of healthcare system Electronic Health Records to include obesity-related records.</li> <li>○ Community- develop a mapping tool of community advocacy efforts related to healthy eating and active living and provide technical assistance and resources to these groups.</li> <li>○ Early Childhood- assess the number of early childcare providers that participant in healthy eating and physical activity trainings and strengthen the workgroup by engaging new organizations.</li> <li>○ Schools and After-School- increase number of school districts with active wellness councils and strong, comprehensive wellness policies, and increase number of school districts that participate in farm to school activities.</li> <li>○ Business- increase participation of businesses in COI workgroups.</li> <li>○ Media- provide media related resources and support to other domain workgroups.</li> <li>○ To view current workplans visit the COI website.</li> </ul> </li> <li>• Between 2005-2010 there was a 3.7% reduction in the prevalence of childhood obesity throughout San Diego County.</li> <li>• The Action Plan has been updated every 4-5 years, most recently in 2015.</li> </ul>
State of Farm to School Report- Colin Cureton	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• The State of Farm to School Report is developed annually by Farm to School Taskforce (F2STF).</li> <li>• In 2015, 37 core members engaged over 200 entities in Farm to School.</li> <li>• F2STF received survey responses from 40 of 42 school districts (95% response rate).</li> <li>• Farm to School is a combination of local foods procurement, food-based nutrition education, and school gardens.</li> <li>• 42 school districts spend $72 million on food each year with 12 million spent on produce (15% of total food cost).</li> <li>• The average food cost is $1.13 per lunch.</li> <li>• 55% of districts reported infrastructure limitations that hinder storing, processing and cooking fresh produce.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Read State of Farm to School Report and share within networks.</li> <li>• Kate share LCAP forum calendar and 10 advocacy points from LCAP workshop.</li> </ul>

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• 70% of school districts have salad bars.</li> <li>• F2STF uses a three tiered definition of local (San Diego County- grown within San Diego County, Regional-within 250 miles of San Diego County, California- grown or raised within the state).</li> <li>• In the past year, local and regional spending has more than doubled due to increased awareness and improved tracking and reporting.</li> <li>• 27 school districts purchase local foods and 20 school districts implement Harvest of the Month.</li> <li>• The 22 districts that are represented in the F2STF reach 85% of all students in the county.</li> </ul>
LCAP Update	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Kate has been attending LCAP forums and realized that health and wellness are missing topics of conversation at the forums. A recommendation was made to encourage wellness councils to identify top three priority advocacy areas and meet with LCAP leads. LCAPS are updated every spring and community stakeholder feedback is needed. Workgroup members were encouraged to attend LCAP forums, wellness committee and school board meetings, and engage parent/student groups as advocates.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Kate to send schedule of LCAP Forums for select districts</li> <li>• Deirdre to send schedule and advocacy materials to District Reps</li> </ul>
